IV. EXPERT FINDINGS, CONCLUSION AND OPINIONS 28

I. Summary of Expert Opinions

1. The unavailability of the Fox Channels due to the contract dispute between News Corp. and Cablevision Systems Corp. (“Cablevision”) is commonly referred to as a “programming blackout,” which is a kind of “network change,” each of which is a term of art that has an established, commonly understood meaning within the cable television industry.

2. In general, in the event of a “programming blackout,” the applicable regulations in the areas where Cablevision operates require cable companies only to give subscribers notice of the change and to afford them an opportunity to downgrade or terminate service free of charge.

3. In connection with the “programming blackout” of the Fox Channels, Cablevision, consistent with its longstanding practice as informed by the regulatory framework, gave subscribers notice of the change and afforded them an opportunity to downgrade or terminate service free of charge.

4. A “disruption of service” is a commonly understood term of art in the cable industry, which refers to a loss of cable service for which a subscriber pays a separate price, resulting from a technical failure or extraordinary force majeure type of event that affects the operation of the cable system.

5. Other than in limited circumstances not applicable here, the across-the-board credits requested by Plaintiffs are required under applicable regulations only for certain “disruptions of service.” The “programming blackout” of the Fox Channels was not a “disruption of service,” as that term is commonly understood in the industry.

II. Expert Experience and Qualifications

I have worked in the cable television (“cable TV”) industry in various capacities for the past 27 years. In 1987, I began working for Cablevision as its Director of Regulatory Affairs. In 1998, I became Cablevision’s Vice President of Cable Policy and Political Ethics. I held that position until January 31, 2014, when I retired from Cablevision. Since February 1, 2014, I have continued to provide consulting services to Cablevision as an independent contractor. My duties as an employee and then independent contractor to Cablevision have not regularly involved giving expert testimony. I have been asked to provide expert testimony in this matter and am being compensated for this work at the rate of $350 per hour. My rate is unaffected by the outcome of this case.

Over the last 27 years my work in the cable industry has focused, among other things, on government relations, regulatory compliance, subscriber relations, and relations with public officials at the state and local level. I am familiar with, and have specialized knowledge of, among other things: (a) licensing disputes between cable operators and programmers; (b) various types of disruptions to cable TV service that occur in the industry; (c) the custom and practice in the cable industry as to relief given to subscribers in the foregoing situations; (d) the legal and regulatory framework that covers the cable industry, in particular as it relates to loss of programming; (e) customer agreements or “terms of service” that are commonly used by cable operators in the industry to govern the relationship between the cable operator and its subscribers; and (f) various terms of art that are commonly used and understood in the industry.

I graduated from Regis College with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics and Government in 1972. I earned my law degree from Gonzaga University Law School in 1976. I am admitted to the bar in Minnesota, although I have been a non-resident and non-practicing member for many years. I spent the early part of my career in government. I was an Assistant City Attorney for the City of Rochester, Minnesota from 1977 to 1982. After that, I served as an aide to United States Congressman Tim Penny of Minnesota, from 1982 to 1984. I attended the Yale School of Management from 1984 to 1986, and received my Masters of Business Administration degree in 1986.

I joined Cablevision as its Director of Regulatory Affairs in 1987. In that capacity, my primary responsibility was to manage the company's government relations. I handled matters involving the Federal Communications Commission ("FCC"), the regulatory authorities of various states, including New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut, as well as numerous local franchise authorities. At around the time I joined Cablevision, it was expanding its footprint into New York City, and I worked on obtaining the regulatory approvals and permits that Cablevision needed to construct its cable television system in New York City. I also worked on and obtained the required approvals and licenses for the company to operate from hundreds of local franchise authorities.

As noted, in 1998, I became the Vice President of Cable Policy and Political Ethics for Cablevision. In that job, my primary responsibility was to manage issues that arose in Cablevision's business involving federal, state or local regulatory agencies. I held that position for approximately sixteen years.

During my time at Cablevision, there have been a number of instances in which Cablevision found itself in contract disputes with the broadcast stations and cable TV networks ("programmers") that provide the programming signals that cable operators such as Cablevision transmit to their subscribers. A number of those disputes resulted in either a temporary or permanent change to the mix of networks available to Cablevision's subscribers. In connection with those disputes, I have personally been involved in the company's efforts to comply with applicable regulations; the company's dealings with federal, state and local regulators; and in making the company's decisions about how it will respond to its subscribers in such situations. I have also seen this type of situation occur with other cable operators on a number of occasions, and have had many discussions with industry participants about them. Based on that experience, I am familiar with, and have specialized knowledge of, the industry customs and practices, regulations, terms of service and terms of art that relate to contract disputes between cable operators and programmers.

There have also been many instances in which storms, hurricanes, construction accidents (involving, for example, cuts to underground cable TV cables), or internal technical problems have resulted in disruptions of the ability of the cable systems operated by Cablevision to transmit particular networks or the entire cable service to its subscribers. In those instances, I was personally involved in working on Cablevision's efforts to comply with the regulations that govern such disruptions; in dealing with the regulators; and in making decisions about Cablevision's responses to its subscribers. I have seen other cable operators experience similar situations on a number of occasions, and I have discussed many of those situations with numerous industry participants.

Over the years I have from time to time read the terms of service used by Cablevision and other cable television companies. I have been asked on various occasions to review drafts of Cablevision's terms of service for regulatory compliance. I have had many discussions with industry participants, including business people, customer relations professionals, and regulators, concerning terms of service in the industry. Based on that experience, I am familiar with, and have specialized knowledge of, the industry customs and practices and terms of art related to cable operator terms of service relevant to this case.

Throughout my time at Cablevision, I represented the company at various cable industry events and conferences. I have been a speaker and/or panel member at the National Cable Television Association national convention, the Cable Television Public Affairs Association and the New York, New Jersey and Connecticut Cable Associations. I was an original member of the “Franchise Group” of representatives of the 10 largest cable companies with responsibility for franchise matters for their respective companies, and regularly consult with executives of other companies on regulatory, franchising and legislative matters. I have testified before, and have given speeches and presentations to, the Federal Communications Commission, the New York Public Service Commission, the Connecticut Public Utilities Regulatory Agency and the Massachusetts Cable Commission. I have also testified before the City of New York, the City of Cleveland, Ohio, the City of Newark, NJ and other major municipalities on issues before the cable industry.

A copy of my Curriculum Vitae is attached at Exhibit A hereto. I have not authored any publications in the previous ten years. Nor have I testified at deposition or trial as an expert witness, or otherwise, in any cases during the previous four years.

III. Facts, Bases and Reasons In Support of Expert Opinions

My opinions are based upon information available to me as of the date of this report. I have relied upon my knowledge of the cable industry based on my 27 years of experience, including various documents I have seen during that time, and, in addition, have considered the documents that are attached as exhibits to this Report. My opinions are based on my skills, knowledge, experience, education, and training, as well as information gathered by and/or provided to me as of the date of this report. I understand that I may be asked to testify regarding my opinions contained herein as well as related matters, including those raised on cross-examination, those necessary to address matters raised by Plaintiffs' witnesses, or those otherwise raised at or before trial by Plaintiffs' attorneys or the Court in relation to matters set forth in this report. I expect to further elaborate and expand on the content of my report as necessary to make my testimony understandable to the Court. To the extent helpful to explain, or to put in context, the subject matters discussed throughout my report, I also expect to provide further general explanations of the matters I discuss. In connection with any testimony, I may rely on materials referenced in this report and attached as exhibits, as well as on demonstrative exhibits to be prepared and identified before my testimony. I will be prepared to supplement my report in the event that any new facts that may become known to me prior to or during trial impact my opinions and bases therefore. I will also be prepared to respond to any expert report offered by Plaintiffs with regard to the subjects herein and/or my areas of expertise within the cable industry.

A. Overview of Cable Television Industry

It is generally held that cable TV originated in the United States in 1948. Cable operators, also called cable TV companies, own and operate cable systems that transmit to cable subscribers the signals provided by broadcast stations and cable TV networks. Generally speaking, cable operators do not produce the majority of the programming offered on their cable systems; rather, they obtain licenses to transmit to their subscribers the programming signals that are provided by broadcast stations and cable TV networks, who themselves produce the programming or acquire it from third parties. The subscribers, in turn, pay monthly subscriber fees to the cable operators for cable TV service. Below, I describe the major features of the cable television industry, as pertinent to my opinions in this case.

1. Cable Systems

Cable operators operate cable systems, which transmit to cable subscribers the programming signals provided by broadcast stations, cable TV networks and locally originated programming. The cable system receives a signal from each programmer at a “headend,” which is a central facility consisting of satellite receivers, antennae, computers, electronic switches and other equipment owned and operated by the cable operator. The headend then routes the signals through various hubs over the cable wires to the subscribers. The cable operator encrypts the TV signal for cable TV networks, and subscribers can access only the cable TV networks that are included in the packages to which they have subscribed. Broadcast stations are typically not encrypted. The physical equipment, including the headend and cables that make up a cable system, are called the “distribution plant” or “plant.”

The subscriber may receive the cable TV signal through a “set top box” or other device, such as one that uses a “CableCard,” that is connected to the cable system. The set top box or cable card receives the transmission of broadcast and cable TV network signals from the cable system and sends it to the subscriber’s television set for viewing. The set top box or CableCard will also decode the cable TV networks’ signals. Cable operators typically own the set top boxes and rent them to subscribers. Subscribers can access certain functionality through set top boxes such as, for example, changing the TV channel, accessing on-screen TV guides, and ordering on-demand movies or other services.

Broadcast station signals, by contrast, are not typically encrypted and do not need to be decoded. Because of that, a subscriber may receive broadcast stations by plugging the cable TV cable directly into her television, without the need for a set top box or similar device. In addition to being carried over a cable system, broadcast stations are broadcast over the air and can be received by any viewer without the need for a subscription or payment of any fee.

2. Service Tiers

Cable operators offer packages of networks or channels at particular rates to subscribers. These packages are also referred to as “service tiers” or just “tiers.” For example, “Basic Cable” or the “Basic Tier” is a service tier that consists of certain broadcast stations and other channels. If a person wishes to subscribe to cable TV service, pursuant to federal law, she must, at minimum, subscribe to a Basic Tier. This is called the “must buy” rule.

A cable operator may offer additional packages of channels for an additional fee. For example, an “Expanded Basic” tier will include the Basic Tier, plus, say, 30 additional channels of cable TV networks. The subscriber would pay a higher monthly fee to receive Expanded Basic than she would for the Basic Tier alone.

3. “Must Carry” and “Retransmission Consent”

Prior to 1992, cable operators did not pay broadcast networks or stations for the right to retransmit the TV programming signals of broadcast stations. Rather, the cable operators picked up the broadcast signal for free over the air—just like broadcast TV viewers using the “rabbit ears” type of antennae—and then retransmitted it to their cable TV subscribers. Cable operators paid the copyright owners fees for the content of the programming, as they still do today.

This system changed with the passage of the federal Cable Act of 1992 (the “Cable Act”).¹ The Cable Act and regulations thereunder gave each local broadcast station a choice between what are called “must carry” rights and “retransmission consent” rights. Under federal law and regulation, each local broadcast station has to make an election between those two options approximately every three years. If a local broadcast station elects “must carry,” then the cable operator in that broadcast station’s designated market area “must” retransmit the station’s signal over the cable system.² However, the broadcast station cannot charge the cable operator a retransmission fee when electing “must carry” rights.

On the other hand, if the broadcast station elects its “retransmission consent” rights, then it becomes illegal for the cable operator to retransmit the signal absent the broadcast station’s consent. The broadcast station may condition such consent upon the cable operator’s payment of a fee to the station. If the broadcast station elects “retransmission consent,” however, the cable operator is under no obligation to reach an agreement to carry that station’s signal or to agree to pay any particular fee to the station. If a particular broadcast station that has elected “retransmission consent” withholds such consent from a cable operator (e.g., because the parties cannot reach an agreement on the terms of carriage), then, as noted, it is illegal for the cable operator to retransmit the station’s signal to its subscribers.

4. Cable Operators’ Editorial Discretion Over Network Selection

In general, cable operators have broad discretion to select and make changes to the mix of networks they offer to their subscribers. There are three principal exceptions.

First, as discussed above, if a broadcast station has elected to exercise its “must carry” rights, then the cable TV company must carry that station.

Second, local franchise authorities often require cable operators operating in their jurisdictions to reserve one or more channels for Public Access, Educational or Government (“PEG”) programming. Cable operators must carry this PEG programming in order to keep their licenses to operate in such jurisdictions.

² Federal law and regulations define the various designated market areas, and the FCC licenses the broadcast stations to broadcast in specific areas.

Third, cable operators are subject to laws and regulations that define the outer boundaries of permissible speech generally, such as those concerning obscenity, pornography, slander, etc., and must comply with those laws.

Aside from those three exceptions, cable operators have broad First Amendment rights to determine what networks they will include in their channel line-ups and to make changes to those offerings, subject only to their ability to reach a license agreement for the networks from the programmers.

Cable operators exercise that discretion periodically by making changes to the mix of networks that is included in the service tiers that are made available to subscribers. They do so as a matter of discretion, and not only in the rare instances where there is a change to the must-carry stations the cable operator is required to carry or in which a new law or regulation might come into effect that requires some change to the mix of networks offered.

For example, certain networks may be moved from a lower, less expensive tier, to a higher, more expensive tier. Certain networks may be added to or dropped from a tier. Other times, one network may be substituted for another within a given tier. These changes all result from the editorial or business decisions of the cable TV company based on a variety of factors, including the availability and cost of the network, views about subscriber preferences, the competitive landscape, and editorial judgments about the content of the programs on the network. Such changes occur intermittently throughout the year.

This editorial discretion is important to cable operators. Among other things, it gives them flexibility in determining which channel line-ups to offer subscribers and the best way to present those line-ups. In addition, by giving operators the right to decide which networks they will and will not do business with, the operators maintain leverage and protection (for both themselves and their subscribers) in the context of licensing negotiations with programmers.

Such negotiations can be difficult. Increasingly, programmers' revenue from advertising dollars has come under downward pressure, due to fragmentation of the market and shrinking audiences. As a result, programmers have increasingly sought to maximize their revenue from licensing deals with cable operators, demanding higher and higher fees. Cable operators necessarily pass the cost of licensing on to their subscribers, and are under pressure from subscribers and competitors to keep prices (and therefore costs) down.

Because of these dynamics, such negotiations are often marked by a degree of brinksmanship. Programmers may threaten to withhold consent and withdraw their broadcast stations and cable TV networks from the cable operator. Similarly, the cable operator may refuse to accede to the programmer's demands, hoping that the programmer will prefer to compromise rather than withdraw their stations and networks. The parties will often negotiate up until the moment before the current license expires and then compromise to reach an agreement at the last minute. Occasionally, however, an agreement will not be reached and a programmer will withhold its stations and/or networks from the cable operator, unless and until a license agreement is reached. In that situation, the cable operator will no longer carry the network in question. Instead, the cable operator will typically broadcast a message on the channel that was previously assigned to that network, informing subscribers of the change. The unavailability of a network in this circumstance is referred to in the industry as a "programming blackout."

Cable operators, including Cablevision, widely publicize the fact that they retain the editorial discretion to make changes to the mix of networks offered on their cable systems to their subscribers. Paragraph 17 of Cablevision's Terms of Service here is one such example. See Exhibit B (Terms of Service). Paragraph 13 of Cablevision's General Terms and Conditions of Service is another. See Exhibit C (General Terms). Cablevision's listings for its channel line-ups also advise subscribers that "Programming [is] subject to change or discontinuance" (see Exhibit D (examples of channel line ups from the 2010 time-frame)) and its Rates & Packages marketing materials state that current offerings are "subject to change or discontinuance at any time in accordance with applicable law." See Exhibit E (examples of Rates & Packages marketing material from the 2010 time-frame). The channel line ups and Rates & Packages materials are provided to subscribers on a regular basis.

B. Overview of Cablevision's Business

Cablevision is a cable operator headquartered in Bethpage, New York. It owns various cable TV operating subsidiaries that provide cable TV service to approximately three million subscribers in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.³ Cablevision also offers internet access and voice service over its cable system, and sells bundles of service that combine cable TV, internet, and voice service.

Like other cable operators, Cablevision offers its subscribers various packages, which are also called service tiers (hereafter "tier" or "service tier"). As of October 2010, Cablevision offered, among others, the following tiers that are relevant to my opinions here:

- Basic Tier (or "Broadcast Basic"): the lowest, least expensive tier, consisted of approximately 35 channels of broadcast stations, PEG access channels and cable TV networks, for a cost of less than $20 per month.
- Family Cable (or "Expanded Basic"): included Broadcast Basic plus approximately 60 additional channels, at a cost of less than $60 per month.

³ Cablevision also serves approximately 2,000 subscribers in Pennsylvania.

- iO Package: could be added if a subscriber had Broadcast Basic or Family Cable, and included approximately 60 additional channels (for a total of over 130 channels), for an additional cost of approximately $12 per month.
- iO Silver: included the Broadcast Basic, Family Cable, the iO Package, plus various additional channels, for a cost of approximately $80 per month.
- iO Gold: included everything in iO Silver plus additional channels (including HBO), at a cost of approximately $90 to $100 per month.

In addition, Cablevision subscribers can also purchase “premium networks,” like HBO. A premium network can be included in a service tier that includes other channels. Such a tier will typically be more expensive than one without a premium network. For example, the iO Gold package includes HBO. Alternatively, Cablevision subscribers can order premium networks like HBO on an “a la carte” basis for a separate fee.

In the 2010 time-frame, when a subscriber initiated cable TV service with Cablevision, the subscriber received and signed a work order for the installation. The back of the work order contained the General Terms and Conditions of Service (the “General Terms”). See Exhibit C (General Terms and Conditions of Service).

Cablevision subscribers pay the fees for their cable TV service on a monthly basis, in advance of each month of service. For example, in September, a subscriber would pay the monthly fee for her chosen service tier for the month of October. Cablevision’s Terms of Service provide that subscribers can cancel service without charge on seven days’ advance notice. See Exhibit B (Terms of Service) at ¶ 14. As a matter of longstanding practice, however, Cablevision allows its subscribers to cancel or downgrade their service at any time for any reason, and will refund the subscriber for whatever portion of the month remains after cancelation or downgrade for which the subscriber has pre-paid. Thus, for example, if a subscriber pre-paid for October cable TV service in September, and decides to cancel service on October 15, Cablevision will refund the subscriber for the period from October 15 through the end of October. Similarly, if a subscriber chooses to downgrade to a lower, less expensive service tier on October 15, Cablevision will refund the subscriber the amount of the fee attributable to the higher service tier for the period from October 15 through the end of October. Because of this practice, Cablevision subscribers have the ability to terminate or downgrade their cable TV service if they become dissatisfied with the mix of networks that Cablevision offers at any time, at no cost to them for such cancelation or downgrade.

C. The Contract Dispute with News Corp.

I have personal familiarity with the contract dispute between Cablevision and News Corp. based on my work for Cablevision. My understanding of the relevant events is as follows:

Among other assets, News Corp. owns 1) The Fox Broadcasting Company, which is a media company that, in turn, owns various broadcast stations; 2) Fox Television Holdings, Inc., which, in turn, owns various cable TV networks; and 3) Fox News Networks, LLC, which, in turn, owns cable TV news networks. These businesses are sometimes referred to collectively as “Fox” or the “Fox Network.”

In October 2010, Fox owned the following broadcast stations, which were available to Cablevision subscribers in the New York, Connecticut and New Jersey areas, and which broadcasted Fox-owned programming: WNYW (also called “Fox 5”); WWOR (also called “My9”); and WTXF (also called “Fox 29”) (together, the “Fox Broadcast Stations”). As of October 2010, Cablevision included two or three of the Fox Broadcast Stations in its Broadcast Basic package, subject to regional variation.

Fox also owned a large number of cable TV networks. There were three Fox-owned cable TV networks that became part of the October 2010 contract dispute: Fox Business Network; National Geographic Wild; and Fox Deportes (together, the “Fox Cable TV Networks”). I refer to the Fox Broadcast Stations and the Fox Cable TV Networks together as the “Fox Channels.” As of October 2010, Cablevision included the Fox Cable TV Networks in its “iO” packages. None of the Fox Channels is a premium channel, as that term of art is described above.

Prior to October 2010, each of the Fox Broadcast Stations had elected to invoke its “retransmission consent” rights. In 2009, Fox and Cablevision entered into a one-year agreement that gave Cablevision the right to transmit the Fox Channels for an annual fee (the “2009 Agreement”). That agreement was set to expire on October 16, 2010.

Cablevision sought to renew the 2009 Agreement in advance of its expiration. During the ensuing negotiations, News Corp. demanded that Cablevision pay substantially more than its previous license fee. At the time, that demand was more than Cablevision paid for all of the broadcast stations affiliated with the major broadcast networks (i.e., CBS, NBC, ABC and Univision) combined. Cablevision offered counter-proposals, but News Corp. rejected each one.

The negotiations were accompanied by public relations campaigns by both sides. Cablevision continued to negotiate a license with News Corp., including offering to enter into binding arbitration.

At 12:01 a.m. on October 16, 2010, with no renewal agreement reached, News Corp. withheld its consent for Cablevision to retransmit the Fox Channels and withdrew the Fox Channels from Cablevision. Immediately upon “going black,” Cablevision placed messages on the affected channels, informing subscribers of the change. Consistent with New York regulation, Cablevision’s messages in New York also informed subscribers that they could downgrade or cancel their cable TV service at no cost. See Exhibit F (example of “Brotsky Notice” to New York subscribers); Exhibit G (example of notice to New Jersey subscribers); Exhibit H (example of notice to Connecticut subscribers); and Exhibit I (Cablevision schedule for showing subscriber notices on cable TV). The next morning, October 17, 2010, Cablevision sent email messages and ran other notices to its subscribers in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, disclosing and detailing the reasons for the unavailability of the Fox Channels. See Exhibit J (October 17, 2010 Email Notice to Subscribers). In the Litchfield and New Haven areas of Connecticut, because Cablevision's contract with WTIC, the Fox affiliate in those areas, had not expired, Cablevision continued to retransmit WTIC to its subscribers (and, as result, such subscribers continued to receive Fox broadcast network programming).

Cablevision and News Corp. continued to negotiate and, on October 30, 2010, reached a new license agreement, which had the effect of saving money for subscribers by paying News Corp. less than its last demand prior to its withdrawal of the Fox Channels. As soon as the new license agreement was signed on October 30, 2010, the Fox Channels were restored to the Cablevision lineup.

As a result, from October 16 to October 30, 2010, Cablevision did not have permission to transmit to its subscribers any signal for any of the Fox Channels. Indeed, had Cablevision retransmitted the Fox Broadcast Stations, it would have violated federal law. As a result, Cablevision did not transmit the signals for the Fox Channels during that period.

Cablevision gave subscribers notice of the change and an opportunity to downgrade or cancel service free of charge, and for subscribers who did elect to downgrade or cancel, refunded any fees they had pre-paid for service after the date of cancelation or downgrade.

I understand that numerous customers took advantage of this opportunity and canceled their service because of the "programming blackout" of the Fox Channels. The vast majority of subscribers, however, elected to continue service despite the "programming blackout," and they continued to pay their monthly fees for their cable TV service. Cablevision did not offer a credit to all such subscribers (which I also refer to as an “across-the board” credit) as a result of the change to the availability of the Fox Channels.

D. Editorial Changes vs. Disruptions of Service

There are a variety of events that can affect which networks are available for a subscriber to view on her cable TV service. The two most common types of events are: (1) editorial or business decisions by the cable operator, on the one hand, and (2) disruptions to the operations of the cable system, on the other hand.

1. Editorial Changes

An editorial or business decision by a cable operator could result in what is commonly referred to as a “network change.” A “network change” is a term of art in the cable industry used to refer to a change to the mix of networks that cable operators offer subscribers on a particular service tier. A “network change” can refer to the addition or removal of a network from a service tier, a change of network from one tier to another, or the substitution of one network for another.

A network change can result from a cable operator’s decision to add or remove a network from a service tier based on the cable operator’s editorial judgments about the content of the programming on the network. A network change can also result from a contract dispute between a cable operator and a programmer, such as, for example, when a programmer refuses to enter into a license agreement to allow the cable operator to offer a network, or when a programmer insists on license fees or other contract terms that the cable operator finds unacceptable. As noted, the term “programming blackout” is a term of art used in the cable industry to describe a network change resulting from such a contract dispute. The unavailability of the Fox Channels from October 16 to 30, 2010, is an example of a “network change.” More specifically, it is a “programming blackout,” which is a type of “network change.”

The terms “network change” and “programming blackout” are not the only industry terms of art used to describe changes to the channel offerings resulting from editorial or business decisions by a cable operator or a programmer. Rather, these kinds of changes also are commonly referred to in the cable industry as changes to “programming,” “program services,” “program packages,” “number of channels,” “channel allocations,” and/or “broadcast channels.” All of those terms are terms of art in the industry, and they all refer to the concept of a “network change.” In addition, I note that all of those terms are used in paragraph 17 of Cablevision’s Terms of Service (and in paragraph 13 of the General Terms) here, and none of them is used in paragraph 4 of the Terms of Service (nor in paragraph 3 of the General Terms).

2. Disruptions of Service

Storms, weather conditions, electrical outages, construction accidents, and other external events can affect the equipment on which a cable system depends, resulting in technical problems that affect the operation of a cable system. Similarly, the equipment and software that makes up the cable system can fail or malfunction for a variety of internal reasons, such as age, maintenance issues, and deterioration, and thereby affect the operation of a cable system. In addition, certain extraordinary force majeure type of events, such as a court injunction, a labor dispute or civil unrest, can similarly affect the operation of the cable system. The term “disruption of service” is a term of art in the cable industry that refers to a loss of cable service for which a subscriber pays a separate price, resulting from technical failures or extraordinary force majeure type of events that affect the operation of the cable system. The term “disruption of service” is not used in the cable industry to describe a “network change,” such as a “programming blackout.”

The unavailability of the Fox Channels from October 16 to 30, 2010, was not a “disruption of service.” It was not a loss of service for which subscribers paid a separate fee.

Rather, it only affected two or three channels out of 35 Broadcast Basic channels, and five or six channels out of at least 100 iO Package channels (depending on regional variation). Subscribers still received their cable service. In addition, it did not result from a technical failure or extraordinary force majeure type of event that affected the operation of Cablevision's cable system. Rather, the unavailability of the Fox Channels resulted from the contract dispute between News Corp. and Cablevision, and business decisions by both Cablevision and News Corp. that prevented them from reaching an agreement that would allow Cablevision to carry the Fox Channels for a period of time, and as such, it was a "programming blackout," which is a type of "network change."

A "disruption of service" is not the only term used to describe a loss of cable service for which subscribers pay a separate fee resulting from technical failures or extraordinary force majeure type of events that affect the operation of the cable system. Rather, such disruptions also are commonly referred to in the cable industry as a "failure" or an "interruption" of "program," "program transmissions," or "service." They are also referred to in the cable industry as an "outage." All of those terms are terms of art in the industry, and all of them refer to the concept of a "disruption of service." In addition, I note that all of those terms are used in paragraph 4 of Cablevision's Terms of Service (and several of them are used in paragraph 3 of the General Terms) here, and none of them is used in paragraph 17 of the Terms of Service (or in paragraph 13 of the General Terms). As a matter of custom and practice in the cable industry, those terms are not used to refer to a "programming blackout" or other type of "network change."

E. Subscriber Remedies

There is a federal and state-level regulatory regime in the areas where Cablevision operates, that addresses the remedies that cable operators are required to provide subscribers in the event of a “programming blackout,” such as occurred in this case. There is a different state-level regulatory regime with respect to remedies for “disruptions of service.” Cable operators, including Cablevision, often address these two situations in distinct sections of their terms of service. I discuss these different regulatory regimes, below.

1. Remedies for Programming Blackouts

I have dealt with the federal and state regulatory framework relating to “programming blackouts” and other “network changes” on almost a daily basis during my 27 years at Cablevision. In general, the federal and state-level regulatory regime in the areas where Cablevision operates requires cable operators only to provide subscribers notice of the change, and to afford them an opportunity to cancel or downgrade service without charge, in the event of a “programming blackout” or other network changes involving the removal of a network from a service tier.

For example, regulations promulgated by the FCC require cable operators to provide notice to subscribers of network changes, and permit cable franchise authorities to enforce that standard. See 47 C.F.R. § 76.1603(b) (“Customers will be notified of any changes in rates, programming services or channel positions as soon as possible in writing. . . .”). They do not provide for an across-the-board credit to affected subscribers.

In New York, a “network change” is defined as “the removal of a network from a service tier.” N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 16 § 890.80(c). The remedy for a “network change” in New York is to give subscribers a “Brodsky Notice,” which is named after the New York legislator who first proposed the legislation. In relevant part, the Brodsky Notice must be given

“to subscribers who are receiving services affected by any such change in writing ... within 30 days of the date upon which the cable television company first knows of such change” Id. § 890.80(c)(4). The notice must be “by written on-screen visual message prominently displayed on the affected television programming channel or channels, and on the program listing channel of the cable television system, if one is provided, at least once each hour for no less than a 30-day period.” Id. Such notice “shall specify the network affected by the change and the effective date of the change and shall inform subscribers of the opportunity to downgrade or terminate service within 30 days of the receipt of the notice without any charge for such termination or downgrade if the network change includes a retiering of service or rate increase.” Id. § 890.80(c)(5). The Brodsky regulations do not provide for an across-the-board credit to affected subscribers. See id. New Jersey and Connecticut similarly deal with these kinds of “network changes” by requiring notice to subscribers and by not requiring across-the-board credits. See N.J. Admin. Code § 14:18-3.17; Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. 16-333f.⁴

Cablevision’s longstanding practice has been to give notice of the change and afford subscribers an opportunity to cancel or downgrade service without charge, and, for subscribers who do downgrade or terminate—and only those subscribers—to provide a refund of any fees that the subscriber has pre-paid for the period after downgrade or termination. It has not been Cablevision’s practice to provide an across-the-board credit to subscribers who elect to continue service in the context of a “programming blackout.”

⁴ There are several specific situations where a cable operator may be required by regulation to provide across-the-board credits to subscribers affected by a network change. One such situation is where the change was the result of a bait-and-switch pursuant to which the cable operator baited customers into subscribing by actively advertising certain programming and then within 6 months pulled or failed to offer that programming despite its reasonable availability to the cable operator. See N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. § 890.80(c)(7). Another is for a “planned programming change” made without proper notice to the Connecticut regulatory authority. Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. § 16-333n. It is commonly understood in the cable industry that a “programming blackout” such as the one that occurred here does not fall within these types of situations.

Cablevision is constantly making adjustments to its channel line-up, including moving networks from one channel to another, moving networks from one tier to another, adding networks, and, less frequently, removing networks from the channel line-up entirely. All of these actions are varieties of “network change.” For example, as shown in Exhibit K, in 2009, Cablevision made over 980 network changes, and as shown in Exhibit L, in 2010, Cablevision made over 380 network changes. See Exhibits K, L (listing network changes for 2009 and 2010, respectively). To my knowledge, in none of these network changes, including those that involved removal of a network from a service tier, did Cablevision offer an across-the-board credit to affected subscribers.

I am also familiar with a number of “network changes” at Cablevision that were “programming blackouts.” For example, in January 2010, Cablevision had a contract dispute with the Scripps Network, which owned the Food Network and HGTV. As a result of that dispute, Scripps Network withheld its permission for Cablevision to carry those two networks, and Cablevision subscribers could not view those networks for three weeks.

Similarly, in March 2010, Cablevision subscribers were unable to view WABC-TV on Cablevision due to a contract dispute with The Walt Disney Company, which owned the WABC-TV station. As a result, WABC-TV was unavailable to Cablevision subscribers for a 24-hour period.

From late 2009 through mid-2011, Cablevision carried the Tennis Channel. When the Tennis Channel’s contract expired in September 2011, it pulled its signal from Cablevision and other carriers, pending renegotiation of terms. Cablevision and Tennis Channel were not able to reach an agreement.

In each of the above-described cases, the only across-the-board remedy that Cablevision provided was notice and an opportunity to cancel or downgrade. Those subscribers who elected to downgrade or terminate were refunded any amounts they had pre-paid for the period after they downgraded or terminated service. Cablevision did not offer across-the-board credits to subscribers who chose to continue with their service, nor did any regulator or court require Cablevision to do so. Rather, it gave notice and an opportunity to downgrade or terminate service.

2. Remedies for Disruptions of Service

Over my 27 years in the cable industry I have had considerable experience dealing with situations where Cablevision went through a disruption of service and with the subscriber remedies that have been offered. There is a well-developed regulatory regime, in the form of state-level regulations governing such disruptions of service, and I have worked with that regime on almost a daily basis over the last 27 years at Cablevision. Over the years, I have also been asked to comment on Cablevision's terms of service dealing with these kinds of disruptions of service to ensure compliance with applicable law, regulations and franchise obligations.

The applicable regulations in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut that provide across-the-board credit in the event of certain "disruptions of service" vary slightly from one another, depending on four components: loss, cause, time and notice.

The "loss" component refers to the scope of service lost as a result of the technical problem or extraordinary force majeure type of event. To qualify for an across-the-board credit, the loss must rise to the level of a "disruption of service," namely, loss of an entire tier of service for which the subscriber pays a separate price (or loss of a premium channel with a separate price).⁵

The “cause” component refers to the cause of the loss and makes a distinction between causes that are within the cable operator’s reasonable control and those which are not.

The “time” component refers to the duration of the loss of service, and is expressed as a continuous period of time ranging from a minimum of four hours to twenty-four hours.

The “notice” component refers to whether or not the cable operator knows of the disruption of service, and whether it provides the credit automatically or only to those subscribers who notify the cable operator of the problem and request the credit.

The regulations for providing across-the-board credits due to disruptions of service are summarized in Table 1 below.

	Loss	Cause	Time	Notice
New York (N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 16 § 890.65)	At least an entire tier of service (or a premium channel)	Disruption of service within the reasonable control of cable operator	4 hours	Automatic credits if the cable operator can determine the affected subscribers; otherwise credit only upon timely notice and request by the subscriber
New Jersey (N.J. Admin. Code § 14:18-3.5)	At least an entire tier of service	Disruption of service within reasonable control of cable operator	6 hours	Credit only upon timely notice and request by subscriber
	All cable service	Disruption of service regardless of whether it is within the reasonable control of the cable operator	24 hours	Credit only upon timely notice and request by subscriber

⁵ At Cablevision the practice is to treat the loss of at least one-half of the channels on any service tier as an effective loss of the entire service tier. This practice grew out of conversations with regulators as to their expectations for cable operators in these kinds of situations.

	Loss	Cause	Time	Notice
Connecticut (Conn. Agencies Regs. § 16-333e1)	All cable service	Disruption of service regardless of whether it is in the reasonable control of the cable operator, provided it is not solely the result of the loss of commercial electric power and was not caused by subscribers	Based on system reliability formula set forth in regulations	Credit only upon timely notice and request by subscriber
(Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. § 16-331w)	All cable service	Disruption of service regardless of whether it is in the reasonable control of the cable operator, provided it was not caused by subscribers	24 hours	Credit only upon timely notice and request by subscriber

With respect to the “cause” component, it is commonly understood in the cable industry that the regulations referenced in Table 1 all concern losses of service resulting from technical failures and extraordinary force majeure type of events that affect the operation of the cable system, and that they do not apply to “network changes,” including “programming blackouts” such as occurred in this case. It is commonly understood in the cable industry that other regulations address the subscriber remedies that apply in the event of “programming blackouts” and other “network changes.” Those regulations are summarized above in Section III.E.1.

Cablevision’s longstanding practice, except in limited circumstances not relevant here, is to offer and provide subscribers across-the-board credits only for “disruptions of service” of the types described in the regulations summarized in Table 1 above, and not for “programming blackouts” or other “network changes.”

I note that, in contrast to paragraph 17 of the Terms of Service (and paragraph 13 of the General Terms), paragraph 4 of Cablevision’s Terms of Service (and paragraph 3 of the General Terms) references each of the four components of cause, loss, duration and notice, which also appear in the regulations summarized above concerning “disruptions of service.”

IV. Expert Findings, Conclusion and Opinions

As part of my duties at Cablevision, I have had frequent involvement in and responsibility for making decisions as to the appropriate remedies to offer subscribers in the event of network changes and disruptions of service. When making these decisions, Cablevision and I typically consider the nature and scope of the issue, the cause of the issue, the applicable terms of service if any, and the practice and custom in the industry as informed by all applicable laws, rules and regulations. Applying those principles here, I have reached the following findings, conclusions and opinions.

First, it is my opinion, to a reasonable degree of expert certainty, that the unavailability of the Fox Channels on Cablevision’s cable system from October 16 to October 30, 2010, due to the contract dispute between News Corp. and Cablevision was a “programming blackout,” which is a kind of “network change,” as those terms of art are used in the cable industry. As discussed above, the other terms of art found in paragraph 17 of Cablevision’s Terms of Service also could be used to describe the change to the availability of the Fox Channels on Cablevision from October 16-30, 2010. But none of the terms of art found in paragraph 4 of the Terms of Service would be used to describe this change to the availability of the Fox Channels.

Second, it is my opinion, to a reasonable degree of expert certainty, that in general, in the event of a “programming blackout,” the applicable regulations in the areas where Cablevision operates require cable companies only to give subscribers notice of the change and to afford them an opportunity to downgrade or terminate service free of charge.

Third, it is my opinion, to a reasonable degree of expert certainty, that, in connection with the “programming blackout” of the Fox Channels, Cablevision gave subscribers notice of the change and afforded them an opportunity to downgrade or terminate service free of charge, which was consistent with its longstanding practice as informed by the regulatory framework.

Fourth, it is my opinion, to a reasonable degree of expert certainty, that a “disruption of service” is a commonly understood term of art in the cable industry, which refers to a loss of cable service for which a subscriber pays a separate price, resulting from a technical failure or extraordinary force majeure type of event that affects the operation of the cable system.

Fifth, it is my opinion, to a reasonable degree of expert certainty, that, other than in limited circumstances not applicable here, the across-the-board credits requested by Plaintiffs are required under applicable regulations only for certain “disruptions of service.” The “programming blackout” of the Fox Channels was not a “disruption of service.” The unavailability of the Fox Channels did not constitute a loss of cable service for which a subscriber pays a separate price, as the Fox Channels represented only a small fraction of the total number of channels contained in the service tiers from which they were unavailable. Similarly, the unavailability of the Fox Channels was not caused by a technical failure or extraordinary event that affected the operation of Cablevision’s cable system. It resulted from the contract dispute between Cablevision and News Corp., in which Cablevision made a business decision to refuse to accede to News Corp.’s demands for fees and contract terms that it deemed to be unacceptable, and in which News Corp. made a business decision to refuse to permit Cablevision to carry the Fox Channels during the dispute.

Agreement for iO TV

- Payment of Charges: Subscriber will be billed monthly in advance for services to be received, plus pro-rata charges, if any, for periods not previously billed. Subscriber will be billed monthly for Pay Per View, On Demand or other services ordered where charges are based on actual usage or on orders placed during the previous month. Subscriber must pay all undisputed monthly charges as itemized on the Cablevision monthly invoice and/or notify Cablevision of disputed items within thirty (30) days of receipt, or such greater amount of time as required by law. Failure to pay charges invoiced may result in discontinuance of service, the removal of all equipment delivered and/or the imposition of a late payment or service charge. An additional charge may be imposed if a check is not honored due to insufficient funds. In the event collection activities are required, an additional collection charge may be imposed.
- Services Provided: In addition to providing video programming and video-related services, and interactive television services, the Cablevision digital cable box may provide e-mail, e-commerce and other services, as well as access to certain proprietary products of Cablevision. Through e-mail and other functions you may be able to subscribe to or access other Services and transact other forms of electronic commerce (hereinafter collectively "Services"). Subscriber acknowledges that Subscriber may incur charges while using these Services or while engaging in other forms of "e-commerce" (i.e. charges may be incurred as a result of accessing certain information, or purchasing or subscribing to certain offerings using these Functions). All such charges, including applicable taxes shall be paid by Subscriber to those Services and are not the responsibility of Cablevision.
- Cablevision Property: All equipment, including but not limited to, any cables, wires, amplifiers, any traditional cable box, digital cable box, access card, remotes, and keyboards distributed to and/or installed for use in the Subscriber's home by or on behalf of Cablevision ("Equipment") remains the property of Cablevision. None of the Equipment shall become a fixture. Subscriber must return all Equipment upon substitution of use or termination of service. Failure to do so will result in a charge to be determined with reference to Cablevision's then current penalty schedule, which amount shall be due immediately. Subscriber agrees to pay such charge whether such Equipment is lost (through theft or otherwise) or destroyed.
- Disruption of Service: In no event shall Cablevision be liable for any failure or interruption of program transmissions or service resulting in part or entirely from circumstances beyond Cablevision's reasonable control. Subject to applicable law, credit will be given for qualifying outages. In any event, if there is a known program or service interruption in excess of 24 consecutive hours (or in excess of such lesser time period pursuant to state law), Cablevision, upon prompt notification of such failure or interruption from Subscriber, will either provide Subscriber with a pro-rata credit relating to such failure or interruption or, at its discretion, in lieu of the credit provide alternative programming during any program interruption. Cablevision shall not be liable for any incidental or consequential damages.
- Repair of Cablevision Equipment: Cablevision will repair and/or replace defective equipment (excluding the replacement of batteries) as long as such damage was not caused by misuse or other improper operations or handling by Subscriber. Cablevision is not responsible for the maintenance or repair of Subscriber provided equipment, including but not limited to television sets, VCRs or other video equipment, remote controls, keyboards, stereos or other audio equipment, telephones or A/B switches. A service charge may be imposed if damage to Cablevision Equipment is due to negligent use or abuse or if no fault is discovered in Cablevision's system or Equipment. In addition, an equipment charge may be imposed for the repair or replacement of any lost, stolen or damaged Equipment. Cablevision makes no warranties, with respect to equipment or service provided by Cablevision or with respect to the Equipment's compatibility with any Subscriber owned equipment.
- Subscriber Property: Cablevision assumes no responsibility for and shall have no responsibility for the condition or repair of any Subscriber provided equipment. Subscriber is responsible for the repair and maintenance of Subscriber provided equipment. Cablevision is not responsible or liable for any loss or impairment of reception of Cablevision's service due in whole or in part to a malfunction or defect in Subscriber provided equipment.
- Taxes: Subscriber agrees to pay any local, state or federal taxes imposed or levied on or with respect to the Services, the Equipment or installation or service charges incurred with respect to the same.
- Reproduction of Programs: Subscriber agrees that the programs and other services provided by Cablevision will be utilized solely for Subscriber's personal, non-commercial use and will not be duplicated except in compliance with applicable law.
- Cablevision's Rights:
 - Cablevision has no obligation to monitor content or services accessible by means of the Cablevision cable system or the digital cable box. However, Subscriber acknowledges and agrees that Cablevision has the right to monitor content electronically from time to time and to disclose any information as necessary to satisfy any law or regulation to operate its programming and data information services properly, or to protect itself or its Subscribers.
 - Cablevision shall have the right to determine in its sole discretion what constitutes an "inappropriate" or "commercial use" of Cablevision's systems, equipment, and services.
- Care of Cablevision Property: Subscriber agrees that neither Subscriber nor any other person (except Cablevision's authorized personnel) will open, tamper with service, make any alterations to, or remove any Equipment from its point of initial installation, absent Cablevision's consent. Any alteration, tampering, removal, etc.

or the use of equipment which permits the receipt of services without authorization or the receipt of services to an unauthorized number of outlets, or to unauthorized locations constitutes theft of service and is prohibited.

11. Access to Subscriber Premises: Subscriber agrees to provide Cablevision's representatives with access at reasonable times to Subscriber's premises to install, inspect, maintain and/or repair the Equipment supplied by Cablevision and, upon the termination of service, to remove the same from the premises. Cablevision's failure to remove its property shall not be deemed an abandonment thereof.
12. Assignment or Transfer: This Agreement and the equipment supplied by Cablevision are not assignable or otherwise transferable by Subscriber.
13. Termination for Bankruptcy: Cablevision may terminate its service immediately in the event that Subscriber makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors or a voluntary or involuntary petition is filed by or against Subscriber under any law having for its purpose the adjudication of Subscriber as a bankrupt or the reorganization of Subscriber.
14. Termination of Service by Subscriber: Subscriber shall have the right at any time to terminate the service by giving seven (7) days prior written notice to Cablevision. In the event Subscriber elects to terminate the service, Subscriber will pay for such service until the date of disconnection. However, in no event, unless Subscriber fails to keep the scheduled disconnect appointment, shall Subscriber pay for a period greater than seven (7) days after Cablevision receives such written notification of termination.
15. Breach of Agreement: If Subscriber breaches this Agreement or fails to abide by Cablevision's rates, rules and regulations, Cablevision at its option may discontinue the service and remove the Equipment. Failure of Cablevision to remove such Equipment shall not be deemed an abandonment thereof. Subscriber shall pay reasonable collection and/or attorney's fees to Cablevision in the event that Cablevision shall find it necessary to enforce collection or to preserve and protect its rights under this Agreement.
16. Security Deposit: Any security deposit given by customer for the Equipment or Cablevision's service will be due and payable upon the first monthly billing. Such security deposits will be returned to customer within sixty (60) days of termination of Cablevision's service so long as payment has been made for all amounts due on customer's account and customer has returned the Cablevision Equipment undamaged.
17. Programming: All programming, program services, program packages, number of channels, channel allocations, broadcast channels, interactive services, e-mail, data offerings and other Services are subject to change in accordance with applicable law.
18. Rates: All rates are subject to change in accordance with applicable law.
19. Late Fee: If your account is 30 days past due, you will see a reminder message on your statement. If your past due balance remains unpaid, you may be charged an applicable late fee on top of your past due balance. If your account remains unpaid, your service may be disconnected. You can avoid any late charges by paying your bill promptly.
20. Disclaimer: Cablevision assumes no liability for any program, services or information distributed over the cable system and/or Cablevision's digital cable box unless locally produced by Cablevision. Cablevision shall not be responsible for any products, merchandise or prizes promoted on or purchased through the use of the cable system or Cablevision's digital cable box, unless such products, merchandise or prizes are provided directly by Cablevision.
21. Parental Control: A Parental Control feature is available for you on both the traditional cable box and the digital cable box, if you want to keep children from watching certain programming. You can place channels under Parental Control by blocking out channel number, and/or, on the digital cable box, by program rating. Please check the manual provided with your service for instructions on how to implement and monitor the Parental Control features. Should you deactivate the Parental Control feature on the traditional cable box, even for one channel or event, this will deactivate the Parental Control feature for all other channels that were previously locked out. You will then have to reactivate the Parental Control to again block out the desired channels. It is recommended that you occasionally verify that your Parental Control feature is activated and operational.
22. Spending Controls: Spending Controls, which allow you to control the purchasing of Pay Per View or On Demand movies and events, are available in order to assure authorized use and ordering of these services, either by means of a Purchase Password for telephone requests, by means of a PIN number for ordering through your telephone or your addressable cable box, or by means of the Options and Help menu available on the digital cable box. In some areas, you may be required to pre-select a Purchase Password or PIN number. Please check the manual provided with your service for instructions on how to implement and monitor the Spending Control features. Failure to utilize these features may allow someone to order Pay Per View or On Demand services from your residence without your knowledge. Should this occur, the account holder will remain legally and financially responsible for all charges. Also, should you deactivate these features on the traditional cable box even for one channel or event, this will remove the Purchase Password security for all Pay Per View services. You will have to reprogram the features if you wish to control the ordering of the Pay Per View services. It is recommended that you occasionally verify that your Spending Control features are activated and operational.
23. Limitation of Liability: Unless otherwise specifically provided in this Agreement, Cablevision will not be liable to the Subscriber or to any third party for:
 - A. any direct, indirect, incidental, special, punitive or consequential losses or damages, including loss of profits, loss of earnings, loss of business opportunities and personal injuries (including death), resulting directly or indirectly out of, or otherwise arising in connection with the use of Cablevision's Equipment by the Subscriber, Cablevision's services, or any other use of the Services including without limitation, any damage resulting from or arising out of the Subscriber's reliance on or use of Cablevision's digital cable box, Cablevision's services or the Services, or the mistakes, omissions, interruptions, deletion of e-mails, errors, defects, delays in operation, transmission, or any failure of performance of Cablevision's Equipment, including without limitation the digital cable box, Cablevision's services or the Services; and
 - B. any losses, claims, damages, expenses, liabilities or costs (including legal fees) resulting directly or indirectly out of, or otherwise arising in connection with, any allegation, claim, suit or other proceeding based upon a contention that the use of Cablevision Equipment, Cablevision's services, or the Services by the Subscriber or a third party infringes the copyright, patent, trademark, trade secret, confidentiality, privacy, or other industrial or intellectual property rights or contractual rights of any third party.
 - C. This limitation applies to the acts, omissions, negligence and gross negligence of Cablevision, its officers, employees, agents, contractors or representatives which, but for this provision, would give rise to a cause of action against Cablevision in contract, tort or any other legal doctrine.
24. Prohibited Uses: The Subscriber shall not use Cablevision's Equipment, including without limitation the cable box or digital cable box, Cablevision's services or the Services for illegal or inappropriate activities, including but not limited to:
 - A. invading another person's privacy; unlawfully using, possessing, posting, transmitting or disseminating obscene, profane or pornographic material; posting, transmitting, distributing or disseminating content which is unlawful, threatening, abusive, harassing, libelous, slanderous, defamatory or otherwise offensive or objectionable.
 - B. modifying, disrupting or tampering with Cablevision's Equipment, including but not limited to, tampering with the seal on the digital cable box, the access card or any of Cablevision's services;

- C. restricting, inhibiting or otherwise interfering with the ability of any other person to use or enjoy any Cablevision service, the Service, or the Internet.
 - D. reselling Cablevision service or services;
 - E. conducting a pyramid or other illegal soliciting scheme; or
 - F. impersonating any person or entity or forging anyone else's digital or manual signature.
25. Engaging in one or more of these activities may result in termination of this Agreement. This section 24 shall not in any way limit Cablevision's rights of termination pursuant to any other provision of this Agreement.
26. License Requirements: Subscriber agrees to comply with all end user license requirements relative to any of the Services which Subscriber accesses pursuant to the terms of this Agreement.
27. Cablevision shall not be Liable for: Any information sent by the Subscriber utilizing the functions of Cablevision's Digital Set Top Box is sent at the Subscriber's sole risk, and Cablevision shall have no liability whatsoever for any claims, losses, actions, damages, suits or proceedings arising out of or otherwise relating to such actions by the Subscriber.
28. Security:
- A. You are responsible for any misuse of Cablevision's Equipment, Cablevision's service or the Services that you have contracted for, even if the inappropriate activity was committed by a friend, family member, guest, employee or Subscriber with access to your account. Therefore, you must take steps to ensure that others do not gain unauthorized access to Cablevision's Equipment, services or Services.
 - B. The Equipment, Cablevision's service or the Service may not be used to breach the security of another user or to attempt to gain access to any other person's computer, software or data, without the knowledge and consent of such person. They also may not be used in any attempt to circumvent the user authentication or security of any host, network, or account. Use or distribution of tools designed for compromising security is prohibited.
29. Electronic Mail:
- A. Cablevision's digital cable box, Cablevision's services or the Services may not be used to send unsolicited bulk or commercial messages. This includes, but is not limited to, bulk mailing of commercial advertising, informational announcements, charity requests, petitions for signatures and political or religious messages. Such messages may only be sent to those who have explicitly requested it.
 - B. The digital cable box, Cablevision's service or the Services may not be used to collect responses from unsolicited e-mail sent from accounts on other Internet hosts or e-mail services that violate this Policy or the acceptable use policy of any other Internet service provider. Moreover, unsolicited e-mail may not direct the recipient to any web site or other resource, which uses the services.
 - C. The propagation of chain letters is prohibited, whether or not the recipient wishes to receive such mailings.
 - D. Cablevision is not responsible for the forwarding of e-mail sent to any account which has been suspended or terminated. Such e-mail will either be returned to sender, ignored, deleted, or stored temporarily, at Cablevision's sole discretion.
30. Violation of Acceptable Use Policy: Cablevision does not routinely monitor the activity of e-mail or other Internet service accounts for violation of this Policy. However, in our efforts to promote good citizenship within the Internet community, we will respond appropriately if we become aware of inappropriate use of our services. Cablevision prefers to advise Subscribers of inappropriate behavior and any necessary corrective action. However, if Cablevision's Equipment or Cablevision's service or Services are used in a way which Cablevision or its distribution affiliates, in their sole discretion, believe violate this Policy, Cablevision or its distribution affiliates may take any responsive actions they deem appropriate. Such actions include, but are not limited to, temporary or permanent removal of content, and the immediate suspension or termination of all or any portion of the Internet or data features, services and functionalities. Neither Cablevision nor its distribution affiliates will have any liability for any such responsive actions. The above-described actions are not Cablevision exclusive remedies and Cablevision may take any other legal or technical action it deems appropriate. Cablevision reserves the right to investigate suspected violations of this Policy, including the gathering of information from the user or users involved and the complaining party, if any, and examination of material on Cablevision's servers and network. During an investigation, Cablevision may suspend the account or accounts involved and/or remove material, which potentially violates this Policy.
- You hereby authorize Cablevision and its distribution affiliates to cooperate with
- A. law enforcement authorities in the investigation of suspected criminal violations, and
 - B. system administrators at other Internet service providers or other network or computing facilities in order to enforce this Policy.
31. Such cooperation may include Cablevision providing the username, IP address, or other identifying information about a subscriber. Upon termination of an account, Cablevision is authorized to delete any data and e-mail messages associated with such account. The failure of Cablevision or its distribution affiliates to enforce this Policy, for whatever reason, shall not be construed as a waiver of any right to do so at any time.
32. You agree that, if any portion of this Policy is held invalid or unenforceable, that portion will be construed consistent with applicable law as nearly as possible, and the remaining portions will remain in full force and effect. This Policy shall be exclusively governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of New York.
33. Privacy Statement: Please see Cablevision's privacy statement for a detailed outline of Cablevision's video or digital services privacy policies and how they affect your use of Cablevision's Equipment and services.
34. Data Storage and Retention: Subscriber agrees to comply with any policies or requirements of Cablevision relating to e-mail storage as established and modified by Cablevision from time to time. Such policies may include but shall not be limited to limitations upon the quantity of e-mails stored, the period of time for which they may be retained, and the length of permissible e-mails.
35. Entire Agreement: This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the Subscriber and Cablevision for OptimumTV and/or iO services. No undertaking, representation or warranty made by any agent or representative of Cablevision in connection with the sale, installation, maintenance or removal of Cablevision's services or Equipment shall be binding on Cablevision except as expressly included herein. Please see additional terms and conditions for Cablevision's Optimum Online(sm) and other services.
36. Amendment: Cablevision may, in its sole discretion, change, modify, add or remove portions of this Agreement at any time. Cablevision may notify Subscriber of any such changes to this Agreement by posting notice of such changes on using the features of the Cablevision's digital cable box, or sending notice via e-mail or postal mail. The Subscriber's continued use of Cablevision's service following notice of such change, modification or amendment shall be deemed to be the Subscriber's acceptance of any such modification. If Subscriber does not agree to any modification of this Agreement, Subscriber must immediately cease using Cablevision's Equipment and services and notify Cablevision that Subscriber is terminating this Agreement in accordance with Section 14 of this Agreement.

EXHIBIT C

In addition to these General Terms and Conditions of Service, Subscriber agrees to be bound by the terms of service for the applicable Optimum service as set forth at www.optimum.net, such as iO TV, Optimum Online and Optimum Voice, as such may be updated from time to time (collectively, the "Terms of Service"), which are incorporated herein by this reference. In the event of any conflict between these Terms and Conditions below and the Terms of Service, the Terms of Service shall control.

1. Payment of Charges: Subscriber will be billed monthly in advance for Services to be received, plus pro-rata charges, if any, for periods not previously billed. Subscriber will be billed monthly for Pay Per View, On Demand or other Services ordered where charges are based on actual usage or on orders placed during the previous month. Subscriber agrees to pay all undisputed monthly charges and all applicable fees and taxes as itemized on the Cablevision monthly bill and notify Cablevision of disputed items within thirty (30) days of receipt, or longer as provided by applicable law. Failure to pay charges billed (including checks returned for insufficient funds) may result in discontinuance of Service, the removal of all Cablevision Equipment (as defined below) and/or imposition of a late payment or service charge. If the Subscriber has more than one account (Business and/or Residential) served by Cablevision, all Cablevision provided Services at all locations may be subject to discontinuance of Service in the event any one account remains unpaid. In the event collection activities are required, an additional collection charge may be imposed.

2. Cablevision Property: All equipment, including but not limited to, any cables, wires, amplifiers, cable boxes, access cards, remotes, cable cards, battery backup units, modems, and routers distributed to and/or installed for use in the Subscriber's service location(s) by or on behalf of Cablevision ("Equipment") remains the property of Cablevision. None of the Equipment shall become a fixture. Cablevision property is intended to service and reside at the specific service location and is not to be used off premises without Cablevision authorization. Subscriber must return all Equipment upon substitution of use or termination of Service. Failure to do so will result in a charge to be determined in accordance with Cablevision's then current schedule of charges for non-returned Equipment, which amount shall be due immediately. Subscriber agrees to pay such charge whether the Equipment is lost (through theft or otherwise), damaged or destroyed.

3. Disruption of Service: In no event shall Cablevision be liable for any failure or interruption of Service, including without limitation those failures and interruptions resulting in part or entirely from circumstances beyond Cablevision's reasonable control. Subject to applicable law, credit with respect to Subscriber's recurring monthly subscription fee shall be given for qualifying outages of Cablevision Services.

4. Repair of Cablevision Equipment: Cablevision will repair and/or replace defective Equipment, if any, as long as such damage was not caused by misuse or other improper operations or handling by Subscriber. Cablevision is not responsible for the maintenance or repair of Subscriber-provided equipment, including but not limited to television sets, or other video equipment, computers, modems, or any other related Subscriber-provided equipment. Cablevision makes no warranties, with respect to Equipment or Service provided by Cablevision or with respect to the Equipment's compatibility with any Subscriber-provided equipment.

5. Subscriber Property: Cablevision assumes no responsibility and shall have no responsibility for the condition or repair of any Subscriber-provided equipment and/or software. Subscriber is responsible for the repair and maintenance of Subscriber-provided equipment and/or software. Cablevision is not responsible or liable for any loss or impairment of Cablevision's Service due in whole or in part to a malfunction, defect or otherwise caused by Subscriber-provided equipment and/or software.

6. Taxes: Subscriber agrees to pay any local, state or federal taxes imposed or levied on or with respect to the Services, the Equipment or installation or service charges incurred with respect to the same.

7. Care of Cablevision Property: Subscriber agrees that neither Subscriber nor any other person (except Cablevision's authorized personnel) will open, tamper with, service, make any alterations to, or remove any Equipment from the service address of initial installation. Any alteration, tampering, removal, etc. of the use of equipment which permits the receipt of Services without authorization or the receipt of Services to an unauthorized number of outlets, or to unauthorized locations constitutes theft of service and is prohibited.

8. Access to Subscriber Premises: Subscriber authorizes Cablevision and its employees, agents, contractors and representatives to access and otherwise enter the Subscriber's premises to install, inspect, maintain and/or repair the Equipment and, upon the termination of Service, to remove the same from the premises. Cablevision's failure to remove its Equipment shall not be deemed an abandonment thereof.

9. Assignment or Transfer: This Agreement and the Services and/or Equipment supplied by Cablevision are not assignable or otherwise transferable by Subscriber, without specific written authorization from Cablevision.

10. Termination of Service: Unless otherwise terminated in accordance with the terms hereof or the Terms of Service, this agreement shall automatically renew on a month-to-month basis. Subscriber acknowledges that upon such renewal all pricing is subject to change.

11. Breach of Agreement: In the event of any breach of this agreement (including the Terms of Service) by Subscriber, the failure of Subscriber to abide by the rates, rules and regulations of Cablevision, the failure of Subscriber to provide and maintain accurate registration information, or any illegal activity by the Subscriber using the Service, this agreement may be, at Cablevision's option, terminated and Cablevision's Equipment removed. Subscriber shall pay reasonable collection and/or attorney's fees to Cablevision in the event that Cablevision shall find it necessary to enforce collection or to preserve and protect its rights under this agreement.

12. Security Deposit: Any security deposit given by Subscriber for the Equipment or Cablevision's Service will be due and payable upon the first monthly billing. Such security deposits will be returned to Subscriber within sixty (60) days of termination of Cablevision's Service so long as payment has been made for all amounts due on Subscriber's account and Subscriber has returned the Cablevision Equipment undamaged.

13. Content and Services: All content, program services, program packages, number of channels, channel allocations, broadcast channels, interactive services, email, data offerings and other services are subject to change in accordance with applicable law.

14. Rates: All rates are subject to change in accordance with applicable law.

15. Late Fee: If your account is 30 days past due, a reminder message will be included on your monthly bill. If your past due balance remains unpaid, you may be charged an applicable late fee in addition to your past due balance at Cablevision's then current rate. If your account remains unpaid your Services may be disconnected. You can avoid incurring late fees by paying your monthly bill promptly.

16. Disclaimer: Cablevision assumes no liability for any program, services, content or information distributed on or through the Services and Cablevision expressly disclaims any responsibility or liability for your use thereof. Further, Cablevision shall not be responsible for any products, merchandise or prizes promoted or purchased through the use of the Services.

17. Entire Agreement: These Terms and Conditions (including the Terms of Service) constitutes the entire agreement between the Subscriber and Cablevision. No undertaking, representation or warranty made by an agent or representative of Cablevision in connection with the sale, installation, maintenance or removal of Cablevision's Services or Equipment shall be binding on Cablevision except as expressly included herein.

SECURITY AND MEDICAL ALERT SYSTEM LIMITATIONS.

Although we will provide a wire connection so that Optimum Voice services are available for use with your existing security system, it is your responsibility to follow-up with your alarm company to confirm that they have your correct and current phone number and to perform any periodic operational tests that your central station-monitoring provider might recommend. You further understand that in the event of an outage, your Optimum Voice service will not be available to contact your central station-monitoring provider.

Cablevision does not support the use of any Optimum Voice service as a connection for (i) emergency medical alert systems, (ii) high speed internet systems (UL-681 or similar) or (iii) fire alarm systems (UL-864 or similar). If you have any such systems, you must maintain an alternative connection.

BY SIGNING BELOW, CUSTOMER ACKNOWLEDGES THAT ALL INFORMATION STATED ABOVE AND GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SERVICE ON THE BACK, HAS BEEN READ AND AGREED TO.

Terms of Service

- A subscription to Broadcast Basic is needed for all TV services. A subscription to Family Cable is needed for iO Sports Pak and Disney Channel On Demand. A subscription to Family Cable and iO Package is needed to receive iO Quick View Channels (Ch. 670-672). A subscription to DVR service, premium service, certain On Demand services, iO Navigation or any iO TV package is needed in order to receive a digital cable box. A subscription to the primary premium service is needed for Cinemax On Demand, Starz/Encore On Demand, HBO On Demand, Playboy TV On Demand and Showtime On Demand. Free On Demand (Ch. 502) availability based on level of service. Seasonal Sports, all games, iO International services, select premium channels, interactive & Enhanced TV services and On Demand are not available to CableCARD customers. Select digital cable ready devices may require a compatible Tuning Adapter (with a CableCARD) to receive international channels, Seasonal Sports, NHL Network HD, Big Ten SD/HD and certain premium HD channels. For specific equipment requirements by package see package listings.
- The listed programs, packages, services, number of channels, content, format, rates and other aspects of Cablevision's service are its current offerings and are subject to change or discontinuance at any time in accordance with applicable law. Products and services offered where available.
- Depending on where you live, some or all of your service and equipment rates, plus certain additional charges, may be subject to state and local fees of 0-5.25% and an FCC user fee of 7¢ which will be added to your monthly bill. Other federal, state and local taxes may apply.
- All outside wiring must be performed by Cablevision and with Cablevision equipment. Inside wiring, including the connection of antenna A/B switches, VCRs, DVDs, DVRs and home theater equipment not performed by Cablevision and equipment purchased from sources other than Cablevision must meet our technical standards.
- An adult (18 years of age or older) member of the household must be present at time of initial connection and any subsequent service appointments. Proper identification in the form of a driver's license is required at time of service.
- Initial service and programming charges are billed from the date of connection. You may see a partial month charge on your billing statement. This charge is for service from the date a promotion ended or from the date of service connection through the beginning of your next billing cycle. The start and end dates of your billing cycle are listed in the Account Summary section of your bill.
- Parental Control: All cable boxes are equipped with a feature that enables a temporary "lock out" of programming or Pay Per View/On Demand purchases at your option. Please refer to the Optimum Reference Guide or visit optimum.net/parentalcontrol.
- Downgrades of cable service are offered at no extra charge within 30 days of a change in rates or rerouting of services.
- Cablevision reserves the right to institute different rates and/or terms and conditions of service for promotional purposes.
- Equipment provided by Cablevision for service is the property of Cablevision and must be returned when service is changed or discontinued. In the event that any equipment is lost, stolen, damaged, destroyed or not returned, Cablevision will charge customer's account in accordance with fee structure outlined within.

OPTIMUM VOICE is a cable-modem service available exclusively to Optimum Online customers. If keeping phone number, transfer charge may apply. Without battery backup, E911 service will not operate if you lose power (backup battery available at optimum.com/battery). If Optimum Voice service is disconnected, E911 will be disconnected at same time. If broadband service is disrupted or disconnected E911 will not function. Customer must notify Cablevision before cable modem is moved to different address in order for E911 to function properly. Call Forwarding & Find Me not available outside continental U.S. MULTIPLE LINES require a multiple-line modem. OPTIMUM VOICE WORLD CALL available to Optimum Voice customers. Residential accounts in good standing only. Monthly rate includes 250 international calling minutes and up to 30 minutes to Cuba per monthly billing cycle. Customers exceeding allotted minutes will automatically be charged an additional $19.95 for 250 minutes, including up to 30 minutes to Cuba for use that billing cycle. Customers exceeding 500 minutes in given billing cycle will have international calling blocked and must wait until start of next billing cycle to resume international calling. Direct dial from customer's Optimum Voice phone only. Calls to satellite phones and audiotext lines/destinations not available.

Terms of Service

- A subscription to Broadcast Basic is needed for all TV services. A subscription to Family Cable is needed for iO Sports Pak and Disney Channel On Demand. A subscription to Family Cable and iO Package is needed to receive iO Quick View Channels (Ch. 670-672). A subscription to the primary premium service is needed for Cinemax On Demand, Starz/Encore On Demand, HBO On Demand, Playboy TV On Demand and Showtime On Demand. Free On Demand (Ch. 502) availability based on level of service. Seasonal Sports, all games, iO International services, select premium channels, interactive & Enhanced TV services (Ch. 600-660 and 900-903) and On Demand are not available to CableCARD customers. Select digital cable ready devices may require a compatible Tuning Adapter (with a CableCARD) to receive international channels. Seasonal Sports, NHL Network HD, Big Ten SD/HD and certain premium HD channels. For specific equipment requirements by package see package listings.
- The listed programs, packages, services, number of channels, content, format, rates and other aspects of Cablevision's service are its current offerings and are subject to change or discontinuance at any time in accordance with applicable law. Products and services offered where available.
- Some or all of your service and equipment rates, plus certain additional charges, may be subject to state and local taxes of 5.65%, 6.3% CT sales tax, and an FCC user fee of 7¢ which will be added to your monthly bill. Other federal, state and local taxes may apply.
- All outside wiring must be performed by Cablevision and with Cablevision equipment. Inside wiring, including the connection of antenna A/B switches, VCRs, DVDs, DVRs and home theater equipment not performed by Cablevision and equipment purchased from sources other than Cablevision must meet our technical standards.
- An adult (18 years of age or older) member of the household must be present at time of initial connection and any subsequent service appointments. Proper identification in the form of a driver's license is required at time of service.
- Initial service and programming charges are billed from the date of connection. You may see a partial month charge on your billing statement. This charge is for service from the date a promotion ended or from the date of service connection through the beginning of your next billing cycle. The start and end dates of your billing cycle are listed in the Account Summary section of your bill.
- Parental Control: All cable boxes are equipped with a feature that enables a temporary "lock out" of programming or Pay Per View/On Demand purchases at your option. Please refer to the Optimum Reference Guide or visit optimum.net/parentalcontrol.
- Downgrades of cable service are offered at no charge within 30 days of a change in rates or reordering of services.
- Cablevision reserves the right to institute different rates and/or terms and conditions of service for promotional purposes.
- Equipment provided by Cablevision for service is the property of Cablevision and must be returned when service is changed or discontinued. In the event that any equipment is lost, stolen, damaged, destroyed or not returned, Cablevision will charge customer's account in accordance with fee structure outlined within.

Nothing was attached. Patricia - can you send the C&C wide one so we can take a look at it?

>>> Kathy Filosa 10/17/10 9:27 AM >>>

I have not seen any modified positioning so also copying in Jon. More than happy to create so remain on standby.

Jim,

These are the emails that went out after midnight on the 16th.

Kat/Jim,

Do we want an updated email to incorporate any new language?

Thanks

A MESSAGE FROM CABLEVISION

We regret to inform you that News Corp, in an act of corporate greed, has pulled Fox 5 and My9 from your Cablevision channel lineup. This is an unfortunate attempt to extort unreasonable and unfair fee increases from Cablevision and our customers.

News Corp is demanding more for Fox 5 than we pay for every other broadcast channel. In fact, they want more for Fox 5 than we pay CBS, NBC, ABC and Univision combined and are asking for more than $150 million a year. That's an $80 million increase for the exact same programming! In these tough economic times, an increase of these vast proportions is irresponsible and unfair.

We have made numerous fair and reasonable proposals to News Corp and they have refused every one. And now, News Corp has pulled the plug on Fox 5 AND My9. This was News Corp's decision, not ours. We want to keep these channels on the air while we negotiate a fair agreement.

As a result of News Corp's refusal to negotiate, Cablevision is willing to accept binding arbitration to resolve this matter fairly. We are confident that an independent third party will agree that what we are offering to pay News Corp is fair. We call on News Corp to accept binding arbitration, and return Fox 5 and My9 to the air until an agreement is reached.

We apologize for the inconvenience caused by News Corp's actions, and we ask for your help. Call 1-877-NO-TV-TAX (1-877-668-8829) or visit www.cablevision.com/fox and tell News Corp to put Fox 5 and My9 back on the air, and to keep you out of the negotiations.

Thank you for your patience, your patronage and your support.

A MESSAGE FROM CABLEVISION

CT RESIDENTS: FOX PROGRAMMING WILL CONTINUE TO BE AVAILABLE ON WTIC AND MYTV9

We regret to inform you that in an effort to get outrageous fees from Cablevision and you, our customer, News Corp has pulled Fox 5 New York and My9 New York off of your television.

Please note that this only affects Fox 5 and My9, and does not affect WTIC—Hartford (channel 25; channel 6 in Litchfield) and MyTV9—New Haven (channel 24; channel 17 in Litchfield and New Haven). Fox programming on WTIC and MyTV9 will continue to be available, and is not subject to disruption.

You can make a difference in this dispute. Call 1-877-NO-TV-TAX (1-877-668-8829) or visit www.cablevision.com/fox and tell News Corp to put Fox 5 and My9 back on the air and not hold their own viewers hostage to get what they want.

Thank you for your patronage and your support.

A MESSAGE FROM CABLEVISION

MY17 PROGRAMMING WILL CONTINUE TO BE AVAILABLE ON CHANNEL 19

We regret to inform you that News Corp, in an act of corporate greed, has pulled Fox 5 (channel 5; channel 20 in Hamilton), Fox 29 (channel 20; channel 5 in Hamilton) and My9 from your Cablevision channel lineup. This is an unfortunate attempt to extort unreasonable and unfair fee increases from Cablevision and our customers.

Please note that this only affects Fox 5, Fox 29 and My9, and does not affect My17 (channel 19). My17 will continue to be available, and is not subject to disruption.

News Corp is demanding more for Fox 5 and Fox 29 than we pay for every other broadcast channel. In fact, they want more for Fox than we pay CBS, NBC, ABC and Univision combined and are asking for more than $150 million a year. That's an $80 million increase for the exact same programming! In these tough economic times, an increase of these vast proportions is irresponsible and unfair. We have made numerous fair and reasonable proposals to News Corp and they have refused every one. And now, News Corp has pulled the plug on Fox 5, Fox 29 AND My9. This was News Corp's decision, not ours. We want to keep these channels on the air while we negotiate a fair agreement.

As a result of News Corp's refusal to negotiate, Cablevision is willing to accept binding arbitration to resolve this matter fairly. We are confident that an independent third party will agree that what we are offering to pay News Corp is fair. We call on News Corp to accept binding arbitration, and return Fox 5, Fox 29 and My9 to the air until an agreement is reached.

We apologize for the inconvenience caused by News Corp's actions, and we ask for your help. Call 1-877-NO-TV-TAX (1-877-668-8829) or visit www.cablevision.com/fox and tell News Corp to put Fox 5, Fox 29 and My9 back on the air, and to keep you out of the negotiations.

Thank you for your patience, your patronage and your support.

Agreement for iO TV

- Payment of Charges: Subscriber will be billed monthly in advance for services to be received, plus pro-rata charges, if any, for periods not previously billed. Subscriber will be billed monthly for Pay Per View, On Demand or other services ordered where charges are based on actual usage or on orders placed during the previous month. Subscriber must pay all undisputed monthly charges as itemized on the Cablevision monthly invoice and/or notify Cablevision of disputed items within thirty (30) days of receipt, or such greater amount of time as required by law. Failure to pay charges invoiced may result in discontinuance of service, the removal of all equipment delivered and/or the imposition of a late payment or service charge. An additional charge may be imposed if a check is not honored due to insufficient funds. In the event collection activities are required, an additional collection charge may be imposed.
- Services Provided: In addition to providing video programming and video-related services, and interactive television services, the Cablevision digital cable box may provide e-mail, e-commerce and other services, as well as access to certain proprietary products of Cablevision. Through e-mail and other functions you may be able to subscribe to or access other Services and transact other forms of electronic commerce (hereinafter collectively "Services"). Subscriber acknowledges that Subscriber may incur charges while using these Services or while engaging in other forms of "e-commerce" (i.e. charges may be incurred as a result of accessing certain information, or purchasing or subscribing to certain offerings using these Functions). All such charges, including applicable taxes shall be paid by Subscriber to those Services and are not the responsibility of Cablevision.
- Cablevision Property: All equipment, including but not limited to, any cables, wires, amplifiers, any traditional cable box, digital cable box, access card, remotes, and keyboards distributed to and/or installed for use in the Subscriber's home by or on behalf of Cablevision ("Equipment") remains the property of Cablevision. None of the Equipment shall become a fixture. Subscriber must return all Equipment upon substitution of use or termination of service. Failure to do so will result in a charge to be determined with reference to Cablevision's then current penalty schedule, which amount shall be due immediately. Subscriber agrees to pay such charge whether such Equipment is lost (through theft or otherwise) or destroyed.
- Disruption of Service: In no event shall Cablevision be liable for any failure or interruption of program transmissions or service resulting in part or entirely from circumstances beyond Cablevision's reasonable control. Subject to applicable law, credit will be given for qualifying outages. In any event, if there is a known program or service interruption in excess of 24 consecutive hours (or in excess of such lesser time period pursuant to state law), Cablevision, upon prompt notification of such failure or interruption from Subscriber, will either provide Subscriber with a pro-rata credit relating to such failure or interruption or, at its discretion, in lieu of the credit provide alternative programming during any program interruption. Cablevision shall not be liable for any incidental or consequential damages.
- Repair of Cablevision Equipment: Cablevision will repair and/or replace defective equipment (excluding the replacement of batteries) as long as such damage was not caused by misuse or other improper operations or handling by Subscriber. Cablevision is not responsible for the maintenance or repair of Subscriber provided equipment, including but not limited to television sets, VCRs or other video equipment, remote controls, keyboards, stereos or other audio equipment, telephones or A/B switches. A service charge may be imposed if damage to Cablevision Equipment is due to negligent use or abuse or if no fault is discovered in Cablevision's system or Equipment. In addition, an equipment charge may be imposed for the repair or replacement of any lost, stolen or damaged Equipment. Cablevision makes no warranties, with respect to equipment or service provided by Cablevision or with respect to the Equipment's compatibility with any Subscriber owned equipment.
- Subscriber Property: Cablevision assumes no responsibility for and shall have no responsibility for the condition or repair of any Subscriber provided equipment. Subscriber is responsible for the repair and maintenance of Subscriber provided equipment. Cablevision is not responsible or liable for any loss or impairment of reception of Cablevision's service due in whole or in part to a malfunction or defect in Subscriber provided equipment.
- Taxes: Subscriber agrees to pay any local, state or federal taxes imposed or levied on or with respect to the Services, the Equipment or installation or service charges incurred with respect to the same.
- Reproduction of Programs: Subscriber agrees that the programs and other services provided by Cablevision will be utilized solely for Subscriber's personal, non-commercial use and will not be duplicated except in compliance with applicable law.
- Cablevision's Rights:
 - Cablevision has no obligation to monitor content or services accessible by means of the Cablevision cable system or the digital cable box. However, Subscriber acknowledges and agrees that Cablevision has the right to monitor content electronically from time to time and to disclose any information as necessary to satisfy any law or regulation to operate its programming and data information services properly, or to protect itself or its Subscribers.
 - Cablevision shall have the right to determine in its sole discretion what constitutes an "inappropriate" or "commercial use" of Cablevision's systems, equipment, and services.
- Care of Cablevision Property: Subscriber agrees that neither Subscriber nor any other person (except Cablevision's authorized personnel) will open, tamper with service, make any alterations to, or remove any Equipment from its point of initial installation, absent Cablevision's consent. Any alteration, tampering, removal, etc.

or the use of equipment which permits the receipt of services without authorization or the receipt of services to an unauthorized number of outlets, or to unauthorized locations constitutes theft of service and is prohibited.

11. Access to Subscriber Premises: Subscriber agrees to provide Cablevision's representatives with access at reasonable times to Subscriber's premises to install, inspect, maintain and/or repair the Equipment supplied by Cablevision and, upon the termination of service, to remove the same from the premises. Cablevision's failure to remove its property shall not be deemed an abandonment thereof.
12. Assignment or Transfer: This Agreement and the equipment supplied by Cablevision are not assignable or otherwise transferable by Subscriber.
13. Termination for Bankruptcy: Cablevision may terminate its service immediately in the event that Subscriber makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors or a voluntary or involuntary petition is filed by or against Subscriber under any law having for its purpose the adjudication of Subscriber as a bankrupt or the reorganization of Subscriber.
14. Termination of Service by Subscriber: Subscriber shall have the right at any time to terminate the service by giving seven (7) days prior written notice to Cablevision. In the event Subscriber elects to terminate the service, Subscriber will pay for such service until the date of disconnection. However, in no event, unless Subscriber fails to keep the scheduled disconnect appointment, shall Subscriber pay for a period greater than seven (7) days after Cablevision receives such written notification of termination.
15. Breach of Agreement: If Subscriber breaches this Agreement or fails to abide by Cablevision's rates, rules and regulations, Cablevision at its option may discontinue the service and remove the Equipment. Failure of Cablevision to remove such Equipment shall not be deemed an abandonment thereof. Subscriber shall pay reasonable collection and/or attorney's fees to Cablevision in the event that Cablevision shall find it necessary to enforce collection or to preserve and protect its rights under this Agreement.
16. Security Deposit: Any security deposit given by customer for the Equipment or Cablevision's service will be due and payable upon the first monthly billing. Such security deposits will be returned to customer within sixty (60) days of termination of Cablevision's service so long as payment has been made for all amounts due on customer's account and customer has returned the Cablevision Equipment undamaged.
17. Programming: All programming, program services, program packages, number of channels, channel allocations, broadcast channels, interactive services, e-mail, data offerings and other Services are subject to change in accordance with applicable law.
18. Rates: All rates are subject to change in accordance with applicable law.
19. Late Fee: If your account is 30 days past due, you will see a reminder message on your statement. If your past due balance remains unpaid, you may be charged an applicable late fee on top of your past due balance. If your account remains unpaid, your service may be disconnected. You can avoid any late charges by paying your bill promptly.
20. Disclaimer: Cablevision assumes no liability for any program, services or information distributed over the cable system and/or Cablevision's digital cable box unless locally produced by Cablevision. Cablevision shall not be responsible for any products, merchandise or prizes promoted on or purchased through the use of the cable system or Cablevision's digital cable box, unless such products, merchandise or prizes are provided directly by Cablevision.
21. Parental Control: A Parental Control feature is available for you on both the traditional cable box and the digital cable box, if you want to keep children from watching certain programming. You can place channels under Parental Control by blocking out channel number, and/or, on the digital cable box, by program rating. Please check the manual provided with your service for instructions on how to implement and monitor the Parental Control features. Should you deactivate the Parental Control feature on the traditional cable box, even for one channel or event, this will deactivate the Parental Control feature for all other channels that were previously locked out. You will then have to reactivate the Parental Control to again block out the desired channels. It is recommended that you occasionally verify that your Parental Control feature is activated and operational.
22. Spending Controls: Spending Controls, which allow you to control the purchasing of Pay Per View or On Demand movies and events, are available in order to assure authorized use and ordering of these services, either by means of a Purchase Password for telephone requests, by means of a PIN number for ordering through your telephone or your addressable cable box, or by means of the Options and Help menu available on the digital cable box. In some areas, you may be required to pre-select a Purchase Password or PIN number. Please check the manual provided with your service for instructions on how to implement and monitor the Spending Control features. Failure to utilize these features may allow someone to order Pay Per View or On Demand services from your residence without your knowledge. Should this occur, the account holder will remain legally and financially responsible for all charges. Also, should you deactivate these features on the traditional cable box even for one channel or event, this will remove the Purchase Password security for all Pay Per View services. You will have to reprogram the features if you wish to control the ordering of the Pay Per View services. It is recommended that you occasionally verify that your Spending Control features are activated and operational.
23. Limitation of Liability: Unless otherwise specifically provided in this Agreement, Cablevision will not be liable to the Subscriber or to any third party for:
 - A. any direct, indirect, incidental, special, punitive or consequential losses or damages, including loss of profits, loss of earnings, loss of business opportunities and personal injuries (including death), resulting directly or indirectly out of, or otherwise arising in connection with the use of Cablevision's Equipment by the Subscriber, Cablevision's services, or any other use of the Services including without limitation, any damage resulting from or arising out of the Subscriber's reliance on or use of Cablevision's digital cable box, Cablevision's services or the Services, or the mistakes, omissions, interruptions, deletion of e-mails, errors, defects, delays in operation, transmission, or any failure of performance of Cablevision's Equipment, including without limitation the digital cable box, Cablevision's services or the Services; and
 - B. any losses, claims, damages, expenses, liabilities or costs (including legal fees) resulting directly or indirectly out of, or otherwise arising in connection with, any allegation, claim, suit or other proceeding based upon a contention that the use of Cablevision Equipment, Cablevision's services, or the Services by the Subscriber or a third party infringes the copyright, patent, trademark, trade secret, confidentiality, privacy, or other industrial or intellectual property rights or contractual rights of any third party.
 - C. This limitation applies to the acts, omissions, negligence and gross negligence of Cablevision, its officers, employees, agents, contractors or representatives which, but for this provision, would give rise to a cause of action against Cablevision in contract, tort or any other legal doctrine.
24. Prohibited Uses: The Subscriber shall not use Cablevision's Equipment, including without limitation the cable box or digital cable box, Cablevision's services or the Services for illegal or inappropriate activities, including but not limited to:
 - A. invading another person's privacy; unlawfully using, possessing, posting, transmitting or disseminating obscene, profane or pornographic material; posting, transmitting, distributing or disseminating content which is unlawful, threatening, abusive, harassing, libelous, slanderous, defamatory or otherwise offensive or objectionable.
 - B. modifying, disrupting or tampering with Cablevision's Equipment, including but not limited to, tampering with the seal on the digital cable box, the access card or any of Cablevision's services;

- C. restricting, inhibiting or otherwise interfering with the ability of any other person to use or enjoy any Cablevision service, the Service, or the Internet.
 - D. reselling Cablevision service or services;
 - E. conducting a pyramid or other illegal soliciting scheme; or
 - F. impersonating any person or entity or forging anyone else's digital or manual signature.
25. Engaging in one or more of these activities may result in termination of this Agreement. This section 24 shall not in any way limit Cablevision's rights of termination pursuant to any other provision of this Agreement.
26. License Requirements: Subscriber agrees to comply with all end user license requirements relative to any of the Services which Subscriber accesses pursuant to the terms of this Agreement.
27. Cablevision shall not be Liable for: Any information sent by the Subscriber utilizing the functions of Cablevision's Digital Set Top Box is sent at the Subscriber's sole risk, and Cablevision shall have no liability whatsoever for any claims, losses, actions, damages, suits or proceedings arising out of or otherwise relating to such actions by the Subscriber.
28. Security:
- A. You are responsible for any misuse of Cablevision's Equipment, Cablevision's service or the Services that you have contracted for, even if the inappropriate activity was committed by a friend, family member, guest, employee or Subscriber with access to your account. Therefore, you must take steps to ensure that others do not gain unauthorized access to Cablevision's Equipment, services or Services.
 - B. The Equipment, Cablevision's service or the Service may not be used to breach the security of another user or to attempt to gain access to any other person's computer, software or data, without the knowledge and consent of such person. They also may not be used in any attempt to circumvent the user authentication or security of any host, network, or account. Use or distribution of tools designed for compromising security is prohibited.
29. Electronic Mail:
- A. Cablevision's digital cable box, Cablevision's services or the Services may not be used to send unsolicited bulk or commercial messages. This includes, but is not limited to, bulk mailing of commercial advertising, informational announcements, charity requests, petitions for signatures and political or religious messages. Such messages may only be sent to those who have explicitly requested it.
 - B. The digital cable box, Cablevision's service or the Services may not be used to collect responses from unsolicited e-mail sent from accounts on other Internet hosts or e-mail services that violate this Policy or the acceptable use policy of any other Internet service provider. Moreover, unsolicited e-mail may not direct the recipient to any web site or other resource, which uses the services.
 - C. The propagation of chain letters is prohibited, whether or not the recipient wishes to receive such mailings.
 - D. Cablevision is not responsible for the forwarding of e-mail sent to any account which has been suspended or terminated. Such e-mail will either be returned to sender, ignored, deleted, or stored temporarily, at Cablevision's sole discretion.
30. Violation of Acceptable Use Policy: Cablevision does not routinely monitor the activity of e-mail or other Internet service accounts for violation of this Policy. However, in our efforts to promote good citizenship within the Internet community, we will respond appropriately if we become aware of inappropriate use of our services. Cablevision prefers to advise Subscribers of inappropriate behavior and any necessary corrective action. However, if Cablevision's Equipment or Cablevision's service or Services are used in a way which Cablevision or its distribution affiliates, in their sole discretion, believe violate this Policy, Cablevision or its distribution affiliates may take any responsive actions they deem appropriate. Such actions include, but are not limited to, temporary or permanent removal of content, and the immediate suspension or termination of all or any portion of the Internet or data features, services and functionalities. Neither Cablevision nor its distribution affiliates will have any liability for any such responsive actions. The above-described actions are not Cablevision exclusive remedies and Cablevision may take any other legal or technical action it deems appropriate. Cablevision reserves the right to investigate suspected violations of this Policy, including the gathering of information from the user or users involved and the complaining party, if any, and examination of material on Cablevision's servers and network. During an investigation, Cablevision may suspend the account or accounts involved and/or remove material, which potentially violates this Policy.
- You hereby authorize Cablevision and its distribution affiliates to cooperate with
- A. law enforcement authorities in the investigation of suspected criminal violations, and
 - B. system administrators at other Internet service providers or other network or computing facilities in order to enforce this Policy.
31. Such cooperation may include Cablevision providing the username, IP address, or other identifying information about a subscriber. Upon termination of an account, Cablevision is authorized to delete any data and e-mail messages associated with such account. The failure of Cablevision or its distribution affiliates to enforce this Policy, for whatever reason, shall not be construed as a waiver of any right to do so at any time.
32. You agree that, if any portion of this Policy is held invalid or unenforceable, that portion will be construed consistent with applicable law as nearly as possible, and the remaining portions will remain in full force and effect. This Policy shall be exclusively governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of New York.
33. Privacy Statement: Please see Cablevision's privacy statement for a detailed outline of Cablevision's video or digital services privacy policies and how they affect your use of Cablevision's Equipment and services.
34. Data Storage and Retention: Subscriber agrees to comply with any policies or requirements of Cablevision relating to e-mail storage as established and modified by Cablevision from time to time. Such policies may include but shall not be limited to limitations upon the quantity of e-mails stored, the period of time for which they may be retained, and the length of permissible e-mails.
35. Entire Agreement: This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the Subscriber and Cablevision for OptimumTV and/or iO services. No undertaking, representation or warranty made by any agent or representative of Cablevision in connection with the sale, installation, maintenance or removal of Cablevision's services or Equipment shall be binding on Cablevision except as expressly included herein. Please see additional terms and conditions for Cablevision's Optimum Online(sm) and other services.
36. Amendment: Cablevision may, in its sole discretion, change, modify, add or remove portions of this Agreement at any time. Cablevision may notify Subscriber of any such changes to this Agreement by posting notice of such changes on using the features of the Cablevision's digital cable box, or sending notice via e-mail or postal mail. The Subscriber's continued use of Cablevision's service following notice of such change, modification or amendment shall be deemed to be the Subscriber's acceptance of any such modification. If Subscriber does not agree to any modification of this Agreement, Subscriber must immediately cease using Cablevision's Equipment and services and notify Cablevision that Subscriber is terminating this Agreement in accordance with Section 14 of this Agreement.
